Grill Assembly

ASSEMBLY OF YOUR GRILL IS NOW COMPLETE.
FOR YOUR SAFETY, FOLLOW ALL SAFE GUARDS AND INSTRUCTIONS.

Operating Instructions

SEASONING YOUR NEW GRILL:

Before using your grill, you should season the unit to enhance the cooking and to provide better overall durability. Failure to properly follow these steps may damage the finish and/or add metallic flavors to your foods.

1. Before cooking, coat the interior surfaces and cooking grid with vegetable oil.
2. Place about 20 briquettes on the charcoal rack.
3. Light the briquettes and let the fire burn for about two hours with the lid closed and with the chimney and damper fully opened.
4. Allow the grill to cool down properly. Once the unit is completely cool it is ready for use.

CLEANING ASH FROM THE GRILL:

WARNING: DO NOT ATTEMPT TO EMPTY THE ASH PAN OF BURNING CHARCOAL PIECES OR HOT ASH.

After the ashes and grill have completely cooled, it is imperative that you clean out the ashes from inside the grill before moisture can combine with the ash. Ash and moisture can create lye, which is very acidic and can cause rusting.

CLEANING THE COOKING GRIDS:

Just after cooking, brush the cooking grids with a brass bristle grill brush (while the coals are still hot). After the brushing, allow the grill and cooking grids to completely cool before attempting to clean any farther. Once the cooking grids have completely cooled, it should be thoroughly cleaned and coated with vegetable oil.
